

Rainbow Bridge

Wizard was the most famous Rotty in the Agility world. He loved both rings, but agility was his true passion. He taught me a lot about handling, distance work and just trusting him and letting him run. I had to direct, he was not going to slow down and wait for me.

2011 - he was the first Rotty at the national specialty to win both HIT in Obedience and Agility.

2012 - he earned his OTCH and his MACH one week apart. He was working on both at the same time.

Wizard was a seven-time qualifier for the Eukanuba AKC Agility Invitational, winning the preliminary rounds his first year (200 dogs in 24 division). He made it to the finals three out of six times, with a 1st, 2nd, and 4th place in the preliminary rounds those years.

At the Westminster AKC Masters Agility Championship, Wizard made the finals three times out of four trips. His first time made him famous all over the world, he came in 2nd and the video was posted— apparently nobody seemed to think a Rotty could do agility. At last view it has over 4 million views and he was featured in an international Rotty magazine because of it.

Wizard loved the crowd - especially when they were cheering him on. He loved all the cookies and pets he could get.

Wizard was one of the greatest ambassadors for the breed.
